Students to Write Essays On Freedom Train Documents

Students in Mrs. Gineva Drown's government classes at Carson High School will try their talents at some old-fashioned journalism.

The students will have an opportunity to write an essay based on one of the 40 documents which were contained in the Freedom Documents Train touring the United States after World War II. After reading the documents, the student will select the one which he believes would have made the best news story if mass communications were available.

Essays must be written as they would have been written at the time the document was first signed. Advisors for the essays will be Mrs. Drown and Mrs. Margaret McKinley.

City Council Gets Results Of Core Test

Core tests on the 190th Street improvements showed the new pavement meets specifications of the city for the project, City Engineer Walter Nollac told the City Council Tuesday evening.

Nollac said six borings were made by Western Laboratories of Gardena. All borings showed asphalt, base, and sub-base thickness met or exceeded specified thicknesses.

Composition of the material, which must be certified by the seller, was not tested, said Nollac.

Adopt Policy on Protection for Meetings Here

City Councilmen adopted a statement of policy on police protection for public meetings Tuesday evening. The statement, prepared by City Attorney Stanley Remelmeier in cooperation with Chief of Police Percy Bennett, details city policy for providing protection.

The policy provides for the Chief of Police to determine when officers are necessary, as well as the number of officers to be assigned.

The council asked for the policy statement following the civil rights forum at Torrance High School in September.
